

TO START SOON ON THE SURVEY OF ROCK RIVER

PROVISION MADE FOR WORK FROM JANESVILLE TO STER-LING, ILLINOIS.

TO FINISH THIS SUMMER

Meeting of the Rock River Improvement Association Will Soon Be Called to Meet in Janesville.

No time is to be lost in securing proper data and formulating a brief to congress relative to the improvement proposed for Rock river that will make it a navigable stream from Janesville to Sterling, Illinois.

When the last congress passed the River and Harbors act, making special appropriation for a survey from Janesville to Sterling as a preliminary step in the work it was expected that the usual delay would follow in starting the work. However, L. L.
Whitford, who is connected with the Illinois and Mississippi canal with headquarters at Sterling, has already begun his labors.

He writes George S. Parker that he will start on the preliminary survey just as soon as the weather permits and suggests that he expects to see Mr. Edwards, president of the association formed to back the project at Dixon last fall, relative to calling a meeting of the executive committee, immediately.

The association was organized by Dixon, Illinois, and Thos. S. Nolan of this city was elected vice-president.
At the time of this meeting it was decided to hold the next meeting in Janesville and if a special session is to be called Janesville will be the place where it is to be held.

Additional interest in Janesville is that the work of a preliminary survey of the Rock river to the mouth of the Yahara and thence through Koshong, Waukesha and Lake Monona, to Madison is also planned, this being additional to the work from Janesville to Sterling and passed and approved March 3, and signed by Roosevelt as one of his last official acts.

This is for the purpose of securing data relative to the cost of a channel four feet deep between Madison and Janesville and would be a great addition to the proposed route from Janesville to the Mississippi river as a feeder from the north.

It would also prove a most enjoyable, lunch trip and would increase the number of summer colonists on the river to a large extent. From Janesville to the mouth of the Yahara the work of deepening the channel would not require much labor as the local land owners have done much for the lower channel.

From the mouth of the Yahara to Madison the route would pass through Stoughton, thence into Koshong, where many Janesville people have cottages, then into Waukesha, where more Janesville people own property, and thence on through into Lake Monona.

The Madison Park and Pleasure Drive association have had under contemplation the deepening of the channel between Lake Monona and Lake Waukesha and would doubtless co-operate with the government in the work.
It would make a pleasure as well as a traffic route for small boats.

The proposed plans for deepening the river between Janesville and Sterling also carry with it the plans for making a reservoir of the Horicon marsh, the source of Rock river, with a view to equalizing the flow of water the year round.

So enthusiastic have the residents of this section of the state become that at a recent mass meeting they declared unanimously to endorse the plan of a reservoir even though the preliminary work of the government did not go any further north than Janesville.

From Janesville to Sterling the river would be held in check by large dams which would be used for generating power as well as aiding in navigation and would form a valuable adjunct to the canal, or river proper.

Many of the business men of Janesville, Deloit, Rockford, Oregon, Dixon and Sterling see a great future for their respective cities if the plans go through. It would mean a deep water way to the Gulf with an opportunity to take the products of the Rock river valley to the southern states and bring up their products to the northern mills at a minimum cost.

The creating of power stations along the river is also thought to be advisable as it would bring new industries into the field and mean increased employment for the development of the entire valley.

DRAINAGE SYSTEMS BEING PLANNED FOR

Will Reclaim Much Valuable Land Now Partially Under Water Many Months of Year.

Several drainage schemes are being pushed in this section of the state that will eventually reclaim much good farming lands that have heretofore been too wet to be very productive. The contracts for one in the town of Centor have been let to an Indiana firm who are already on the ground with five or six loads of machinery. The petition for another, draining a big marsh in the town of Dunkirk and Albion, will be heard soon in the circuit court at Madison.
Still another is well under way covering territory in Grant and Jefferson counties. They are all proceeding under a law that apportions the expense upon the property benefited.

fifty couples enjoyed themselves. The

FINAL PREPARATIONS FOR GREAT CONTEST

Janesville Men Put Finishing Touches to Work on Debate at Deloit Tonight.

Last evening, Professor L. F. Rahr and the boys of the debating team were in Deloit for their final practice and to accustom the speakers to the hall. The boys went through several speeches and received some special drill on rebuttal. The week points in their talks and their arguments were shown to them and they received an special coaching on the parts that needed strengthening. This morning they spent some time at the library gathering together the books and references which will be used in presenting their side of the question this evening.

The Freeport team have debated with Elgin and Aurora and have won both times on both the negative and the affirmative sides of the question.
The local debaters heard their arguments at the Elgin contest and have formed some idea of the abilities of the Freeport men. Those who will represent the Wisconsin teams of the league will be the Janesville boys, who defend the affirmative side of the question: "Resolved, That the United States should enlarge its navy annually by the addition of at least three battleships, or their equivalent, for the next ten years." The college authorities have had charge of the selection of judges, but beyond the fact that Professor Chapin of the college is one of them, it is not known just who they will be. A list of the names of men who could be secured was submitted to Janesville and all with the exception of one, they were willing to accept to decide which gave the best debate.

This afternoon, the basketball boys from both high schools held a contest in the Deloit college gymnasium. The Janesville players have been practicing and hope to win, but are uncertain as to their chances. The former games they have been handicapped somewhat by the small symposium in which they have had to play. The squad, accompanied by Prof. Val. Boers, who will be one of the officials of the contest, will consist of the following members: Verno Merrill, Elbridge Pittsford, Emmett Murphy, Francis Green, Will Hennings, and Reno Koch.

The crowd from Janesville to attend both game and debate will be unusually large. Freeport expects to send over two hundred supporters from that city on the one o'clock car and a special car for fifty of the business men will make the trip at five in the evening. Janesville's representation will number about one hundred and twenty-five.

Besides the Janesville delegation, members of the Junior class of the Monroe high school will be on hand to hear the arguments presented by the Freeport men. The forensic talent of the class of 1910 will also meet the Freeport aggregation and will speak on the same side as the Janesville team.

TOBACCO BUYING AT A STAND-STILL

Edgerton Reporter Tells of the Drop in Trade in This Particular Line.

The buying movement seems almost entirely suspended for the present and for the first time in many weeks we have no list of recent sales.
To report, says the Edgerton Reporter, would be a moderate amount of riddling, though the present outlook does not warrant the belief that there will be any rush to take over the crops of the crop. Packers are still recouling their purchases but the deliveries are nearly in and warehouse handling well along with most of the dealers. The season, however, will continue for some weeks yet in this market.

The market for old leaf is gradually assuming better conditions. Inquiry for samples and prices are more frequent and while no large transactions have developed, packers are confidently looking forward to a more normal trade. A. Jensen & Sons report the sale of 150 cases of '07 during the week.

The shipments out of storage reach $45 cases and six carloads of bundles from this market to all points for the week past. Since last report 42 carloads have been received from outlying points for warehouse handling.

Arguing from the standpoint that a calm often precedes a storm, the New York tobacco journals are predicting a marked revival in the leaf trade soon. Taking their word for it, the market holds less tobacco suitable for this use of manufacturers than any time in some years past, and it is but a question of only a short time before an advance in prices is sure to come.
We know a whole lot of holders of 1906 tobacco who would be more than pleased to believe the situation above described is true. One thing they surely do know that the past year has been a gloomy one for the leaf trade and they feel it is about time for the pendulum to swing back the other way. And it can not come too quickly either for many of the packers are anxious to balance the books and leave just how large amounts must be charged to profit and loss account for the mistake of 1900.

COURTS TO DECIDE ON THE QUESTION

WHO SHALL BE GUARDIAN OF EVA MAY STICKNEY.

THE HEARING IN CHICAGO

This is the Little Girl That Mysteriously Disappeared. From Her Aunt's Home on December 29th.

As a sequel to the mysterious disappearance of nine year old Eva May Stickney from the home of her aunt, Mrs. William Peters of 106 Chatham street on December 29th, last, there is being held in a Chicago court today, a suit by which Mrs. Peters hopes to regain the custody of the child and bring her back to Janesville.

At the time of her disappearance an aunt, Mrs. Henry Burgess, who lived in Chicago, was suspected of having taken the child back to Chicago with her, but for several days Mrs. Peters was unable to learn just what had become of the little girl.

Eva May Stickney disappeared at noon on December 29th while she was going to the railroad tracks to meet her uncle who was coming home for dinner. She did not return and inquiry resulted in the discovery that a mysterious woman, dressed in black had seized the child near the home of Lottie Pruner and dragged her away with her.

This morning Reverend W. A. Gonzalez went to Chicago to aid Mrs.
Peters in her legal fight to be named as guardian of the little child and bring her back to Janesville where her youngest old brother, Harold, waits for her.

When the Stickney children's father died he left ten thousand dollars in trust for their use and named an old comrade of his as guardian. This guardian, Z. H. Winchell, placed the children in a good home, but unfortunately died.

Mrs. Peters of this city then came to the children's rescue, but being a non-resident of Illinois, according to a Chicago attorney, William B. Meak, got her sister, Mrs. Henry Burgess, to take out the guardianship papers in her name.

Mrs. Peters then brought the children to Janesville and later came Eva May's sensational disappearance, the search of her aunt for her, and the hearing in the Chicago court today.

According to Mrs. Peters at the time of the child's disappearance, she is an aunt of the little girl. Her sister, Mrs. Burgess, had been a guest at the Peters home for the holidays, but was supposed to have returned to Chicago.

During the several days of suspense over the child's whereabouts many strange stories were told relative to the mysterious woman in black who was last seen with the child. One was to the effect that she had been seen dragging the child into the cemetery late on the afternoon of the 29th.

Two weeks later word was received by Mrs. Peters that the child was in Chicago in her aunt's care and since then every legal means possible has been brought to play to have the child brought back to Janesville.

Just before leaving, this morning Father Goebel said that he understood the child was in Evanston where Mrs.
Burgess had placed her, and that he thought it probable that the court would again place her in Mrs. Peter's care.

WEST SIDE FIREMEN IMPROVE THEIR TIME

Life With Them Is Not Entirely One Continual Round of Pinches And Crutches Playing.

The boys of the West Side fire station have been putting their spare time to good use of late. Instead of laying around the station. Two of the firemen, Charles Schultz and Phil Marshall have been working for some time on a buggy for every-day use and have a fine, well-made carriage almost ready for use. All of the work on the vehicle has been done by hand by the men and the result is a vehicle that is a credit to their skill. The body has been painted and varnished and the running gear will soon be treated to a coat of varnish.
The color of the wagon is red, with stripling of black.

Another thing that the boys have done is to change the hand-clapper which they have used into one which can be run by an electric motor.
With a small motor going at about six hundred revolutions a minute they can secure four hundred on the gears of the machine. The new contrivance has been tried and a horse shod by it in about thirty-five minutes.

Announcement of Ginghams for Spring 1909

We probably devote more attention to this department of our store than do most merchants. Without doubt the showing made by The Big Store is the largest to be found in Southern Wisconsin, and offers values that are greater even than those of the metropolitan stores. Comparisons have been made with Milwaukee, Elgin, Madison and other cities in this vicinity and it is putting it very modest when we say that we surpass them in quantity, quality and newness of styles and fabrics.

NEW GINGHAMS

Our Gingham stock is exceptionally strong this year, to meet the increasing demand.
Authorities say that ginghams are going to be worn more than ever and the patterns newer and fresher than ever before shown.

At 8c We show 75 pieces in plain colors, in fancies, in stripes, plaids and checks, in blues, pinks, reds, grays and browns. It is usually pretty hard to get good values in an 8c gingham, but our assortment is proving its merit every day.

At 10c There are 150 styles at this price in the new designs and patterns, in the novelty weaves. We show these in browns, pink, blue, green, black and white. We have been unusually fortunate in securing many of the two-tone effects to retail at 10c per yard and the quantities and patterns are very difficult to distinguish from the 12 1/2c and 25c goods.

At 12 1/2c you can choose from at least 250 pieces. This is the gingham upon which the general reputation of the department rests, and we are prepared better than ever before to sustain our reputation of "Keeping the Quality up." We are able to suit all demands at this price, in prettier styles, better novelties, and higher qualities than it has ever been our pleasure to represented. In blue alone we show more than a half dozen shades, the browns and tans are numerous, the pinks, greens, grays, etc., have not been slighted. The novelties are beautiful, the even and broken checks, the plaids, the stripes, the self plaids and Scotch plaids, the two-tone and two-color effects all are temptingly arranged for easy selection. The two-tone effects are mostly stripes and stripes are going to be very good. The checks and plaids, while they are staple, yet have a newness to them not found in many places, and this year's patterns are very different from what was shown last year. Especially novel are the two and three color effects, green with two shades of blue, blue with tan and brown, green and tan, pink and black, pink and green, etc. At 12 1/2c we are also showing the new bordered ginghams in the various combinations of brown, pink, tan, blue, buff gray and black and white. Bordered goods will be greatly in demand, and there is every indication that these, as well as the entire line to sell at this price, will be very hard to get later in the season, as manufacturers are now all sold out on this. Just now we are well supplied and can fill all orders, so it will be wise to make early selections.

At 12 1/2c These are all imported, and we show about 200 pieces. It will readily be seen the immensity of

Chicago and North-Western Foreman J. H. Zickler of the roundhouse today confirmed the report that he had been elected for promotion, but stated further that as the matter had not yet been settled, he could give no information in regard to the place he was to take. It seems to be the general impression that Mr. Zickler will be put in charge of the roundhouse at Hoone, Iowa, where the North-Western has two complete roundhouses which accommodate about eighty engines.

A position as brakeman with Conductor Frenz on the passenger run between Milwaukee and Galena is possible as being vacant. Applications must be in by noon, March 27.

James Fleming is relieving Dispatcher Harry Loucks, who is laying off.

Engineer Ortt and fireman deeded back to Madison last night.

Scot Cochran is taking the place of brakeman Emmett Walsh during the day.

A new switch-engine, number 121, has been put to work in the yards.

Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul
There has been a notable decrease in the amount of freight traffic from last fall to the present time. This decrease has been estimated in preceding years, but this year it is more pronounced than usual. Few extra trains are being sent out and those few generally go on Sunday. The regular trains are also becoming shorter each day.

D. C. Doherty of the R. & S. W. Division was in town today.

Fireman Peter Clark went to Milwaukee this morning for a visit over Sunday.

L. R. Clauson of the C. & M. Division was here today.

Engineer Cumisford and Fireman Morgan had run 128 this morning.

Brakeman Fellows is on the Davis Junction run in place of Brown, who is laying off.

Head Master Murphy of the Prairie du Chien Division was in town this morning.

FREE CUBA.

It is to be hoped that there is some exaggeration about the report of a revolt in Cuba. It may after all only be a case of insubordination among the guards who discharge police duty in the rural portions of the island. Yet, in the event of a disturbance, it is an old habit of disturbance. The incident is most unfortunate, particularly at this time.

It is frequently forgotten that the negro greatly outnumber the white man in Cuba, and that with the dominance of the colored race Cuba might in this degenerate into a condition not so very far different from that of Hayti or San Domingo. It has, however, a very influential white element, and in that element the hopes of the little republic center. It looks to them for education and enlightenment that the more ignorant of their fellows must look for leadership.

It is notorious that a substantial section of the white element in Cuba would desire nothing better than annexation by the United States. There is a sincerely patriotic section of the leading white people however which believes that Cuba can make a success of self-government after all. The division is greatly to be regretted, for much depends upon the white element pulling together. It is good to believe that Cuba can govern herself and the disinterested American will hope for the achievement of that object.

There is a great deal of American capital invested in Cuba and its safety is a very serious matter, although we ought to impress upon our own people what we are constantly telling the nations of Europe. It should be recognized that anybody who invests capital in the minor American republics accepts a large risk for the sake of large profits, and has no right to expect his government to guarantee these profits by interfering to collect his claims. This is equity in the case with American capital invested in Cuba and it should always be kept in mind on the revival of annexation talk.

Nobody can doubt that the new government in Cuba is sincerely trying to do its best for the island. It is, therefore, the more deplorable that the first disturbances have occurred within two months of the inauguration of President Gomez. No doubt the rural guard is rather out of hand since the American officers were withdrawn. The time is an admirable one for the exhibition of real capacity in leadership. The firm and prompt handling of the present difficulty can make or break the new president.

Everyone will readily recognize the national sensitiveness of the patriotic Cuban. He ought to remember that he is now especially on his good behavior. Cuban independence is, after all, in his own hands.

BLACK HAND OUTRAGES

There is a story originating sometime in the middle ages that Providence for its own inscrutable purposes let loose the Spirit of the Plague upon the people, with permission to kill one in ten. That number was far exceeded and the spirit was indicted before the judgment seat. His defense was conclusive, "I killed one in ten," he said, "four killed the rest."

It must be plain to anybody that the unlawful secret societies of Italy benefit largely by the exaggerated terror of their name. There is scarcely a prominent financier in Wall street who has not at one time or another received threats. The admission of the public to the Stock Exchange was in fact suspended two years ago on the possibility that some criminal lunatic might try to do damage from that point of vantage. Nevertheless Wall street is not easily scared and it will be observed that here and elsewhere threatened men live long.

Black Hand outrages in fact are directed almost exclusively against ignorant and superstitious classes which has not been in this country long enough to have acquired the American confidence and poise. Really the Sicilian and Calabrian tough is a very poor creature. He is only safe behind a revolver and a knife and sheltered with the exaggerated terror which his crimes have inspired. But we need not alarm ourselves or think that he is a proposition which cannot be handled in a sane and civilized way.

The type is unfortunately a very low one and the Italian of the south is, it is to be feared, far inferior morally and morally to the kindly, thrifty peasant of Lombardy and the north. He is, however, not more dangerous than the anarchistic element which we get from elsewhere, and we have at hand an infallible protection for the credulous people upon whom he preys. Education is the one solution. We must get at the little children and teach them the fear of God and the way to adapt it to good citizenship. We cannot do it all in a hurry but we can wipe out mafia and camorra in a generation.

TARIFF REVISION

It is only yet for detailed comment upon the tariff bill submitted to congress. It will require careful study, and only the most general comment is in order. The new schedules presumably present the limit of concession, and it is fair to suppose that the tender mercies of the senate will change the measure very considerably before it is enacted into law," says the Wall Street Journal.

"It can be said at least that there is a genuine attempt at revision. Probably the most important step in principle is the transfer to the free list of such commodities as hides and iron ore. The admission of bituminous coal free from countries which impose no duty is also a genuine concession and opens our ports to Welsh steam coal. This is a point of wide economic significance and is likely to be one on which there will be a stiff fight in the senate.

"The most sanguine free trader can hardly hope that the bill will become a law in anything near its present form, but at least the principle of revision has been conceded, even if there are some questionable increases in duties. The schedule is very long and complicated. It indicates a great deal of genuine hard work by the ways and means committee. Most people not bigoted on the point of tariff for revenue only will concede that there is evidence of a genuine effort to meet the needs of the case. "What is needed now is prompt consideration by both houses. The course of business has been arrested quite long enough, and it is satisfactory to see that the new schedules are to become effective on the day following the enactment of the bill."

Taft has served notice that he will not sign any gabled tariff bill, so the senate can begin to realize that while the big stick is gone still there is a man in the White House who means what he says.

That investigating committee keeps on finding out something it did not want to know as the days go by. If it keeps on it will discover just what it cost to reform the state and who paid the freight.

The hundred-day session of the legislature was a myth. The members talked of it until they came to believe it and then they were surprised when no one else did.

This deep water-way from Janesville to the Gulf will mean much to the residents of Janesville who do much freight shipping. Also, the consumer will be able to have a taste of lower prices.

Some of the candidates are realizing the fact that next Tuesday is primary day and that by seven that night the votes will all be counted and some people are going to be disappointed.

This has been the quietest primary campaign of any thus far held. The interest in the primary appears to have become prominent by its absence this year.

Too much politics is a bad thing for any community, but every good self-respecting citizen should vote on Tuesday next.

The wool tariff has not been cheapened, so the clothes we wear will cost just as much as ever.

Took It Personally.

An author engaged a young lady typewriter to take down his new novel from dictation. At the passage: "Oh! my adorable angel, accept the confession from my lips that I cannot exist without you! Make me happy; come and share my lot and be mine until death do us part!"—his fair secretary paused and indignantly inquired: "Is that to go down with the rest?"

WILLIAM BRADLEY'S SAD, SAD LAMENT

Was Making Overtures for a Reconciliation with His Wife when He Died When He Learned of Her Death.

William Bradley, the Rockford ballad-writer and composer of the song, "When the Parlor Lamp's Turned Low," accompanied his plea of guilty to a charge of drunkenness in municipal court this morning with the following sad story:

"Judge, can I say a few words in my own behalf? Mrs. Bradley and myself had not been living together for some time, but she had been frequently in my mind. The other day I walked into one of Rockford's finest millinery stores and purchased a beautiful black hat that cost $18. I gave them the address and arranged to have it delivered to Mrs. Bradley. By and by the boy came back and said that she was not living there any more. I then took that $18 hat to the express office and told the man to send that hat to Mrs. Bradley wherever she might be. When I went the next day to see if my directions had been carried out, they told me she had died in a Beloit hospital before the hat reached her."

"I had been behaving myself for a long time, Judge, as Chief Barron would tell you, but when I heard that I went and got drunk. Can you blame me, Judge? No, you cannot."

The court was visibly affected by the harrowing recital and indicated an intention of making the fine a light one. "That's right, Judge, make it light!" said Mr. Bradley, approvingly.

The prisoner did not have the $2.10 on his person but was allowed to hunt up a friend and get the money. "I could have caught a car out and never come near you, Chief, but you knew I'd come back—sure you did!" he exclaimed self-approvingly as he turned in the cash a half hour later. James Nolan was unable to pay a fine of $1 and costs and went to the county jail for fifteen days.

WHAT NEXT?

The startling and gracious announcement is made that an antitoxin has been discovered for these awful diseases:

Pneumonia.

Blood poisoning.

Typhoid fever.

The head pathologist of Tufts Medical school of Boston is quoted to the effect that arrangements will soon be made to supply physicians with the remedy.

It is marvelous in our eyes.

Tuberculosis and cancer are awful diseases, but they are slow and lingering in their insidious destruction of human tissue.

On the other hand, the above mentioned three diseases are not only deadly, but sudden maladies, and, while tuberculosis selects the weakened for its victims, these diseases attack the strong and robust.

Typhoid, pneumonia and blood poisoning ravage the very flower of the race. Oftentimes the subject is in his grave a fortnight after he is prostrated.

Tens of thousands of strong lives go that way every year.

No that it goes without saying if the laboratory workers have wrought out an antitoxin remedy as efficacious in these diseases as the diphtheria antitoxin has proved itself to be in its specialty then the world is immeasurably indebted to these discoverers.

It may be stated, by the way, that the really great progress of medical science dates from Pasteur and the science of bacteriology.

Hand in hand with the study of bacteriology has gone the practical demonstration of theories by the vivisection of animals.

"What?" you say.

Why, that is the "refinement of cruelty."

And people—good people—have written articles and pamphlets galore against it, and societies have been organized to put a stop to it by legislation.

Yes.

But do not these people see they are trying to prevent the discovery of the remedial agents that save countless lives?

Besides, no cruelty whatever is practiced on the animals.

Well, well—

Mrs. Parlington's broom, however well intentioned, it may have been, was inadequate to keep back the waves of the Atlantic ocean.

And It Was Overruled.

Judge Hoar and Gen. Butler were opponents in a case of a new trial. Gen. Butler quoted: "Eye for eye, skin for skin, tooth for tooth, yea, all that a man hath, will be given for his life." To which Judge Hoar replied: "Yes, the devil quoted that once before in a motion for a new trial."

Paint to Indicate Danger.

A paint is soon to be placed on the market to indicate excessive heat in machine parts. Red when cool, it becomes black when heated. Mercuric and cupric oxide are two of the

ROOSEVELT LAUGHS AT DANGERS OF JUNGLES

Declares He Will Come Out of Africa Alive, in Addressing Neighbors.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Mar. 19.—Former President Roosevelt, in a speech to the "Roosevelt Neighbors of Nassau County, N. Y.," yesterday assured them that he intends to disprove the gloomy forebodings of Prof. Starr, who declared that Mr. Roosevelt will not come out of Africa alive if he follows the itinerary he has mapped out.

He promised these present, if he proved he is right, that in a year and a quarter they would celebrate together. From this remark it appears that Mr. Roosevelt will be absent from the United States no longer than 15 months.

Wearing silk hats and dark raincoats, with a red carnation in the buttonhole, and carrying umbrellas rolled tightly, the delegation arrived on a special train from Mineola and other towns nearby.

Mr. Roosevelt declared he was deeply touched by their kind and thoughtful courtesy.

"I am now back with my friends and neighbors of Nassau county," he said, "and I feel deeply the way everybody has greeted me. It is with the deepest pride that I feel you regard me as having not entirely unworthily represented you at the White House. There is nothing very much out of the ordinary in being a decent public servant. There are certain rather commonplace qualities which all insist upon in any man who takes public office, and these he must have in a somewhat unusual degree. These qualities are the same as those which go to make up a good neighbor."

Three cheers were called for "our Teddy," and then again that he will return safely from his trip to Africa. These cheers were given with a vim, and at their conclusion Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Now, gentlemen, don't cheer for the lions."

Glimpse to Insurance Scandals.

New York, Mar. 19.—What is probably a final echo of the insurance scandal of three years ago was heard yesterday when District Attorney Jerome appeared before Justice Blanchard in the criminal branch of the supreme court and requested that indictments for forgery against George W. Perkins of the New York Life Insurance Company; Charles S. Fairchild, a director of the New York Life, and Robert A. Grambs, vice-president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, be dismissed. Justice Blanchard reserved decision.

Probe for Oil Trust Rebates.

Rochester, N. Y., Mar. 19.—Fourteen Pennsylvania Railroad Company employees have been subpoenaed to appear at Buffalo March 29 in the federal court in connection with Standard Oil rebating cases.

Cuban Revolutionists Surrender.

Havana, Mar. 19.—Sergt. Cortes, the leader of the insurrectionists, and his whole band surrendered last night to the civil authorities of Remedios in Santa Clara province.

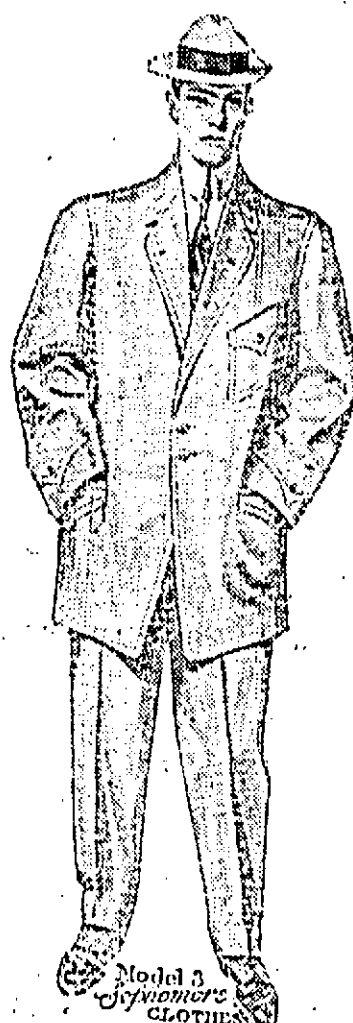

Significance of Shoe Throwing.

To this day eastern people take off their shoes as marks of reverence and as tokens that they dare not take occupancy where they stand. The thrower of the old shoe at a wedding ought to stand barefoot to keep the luck emblem intact, and the shoe should certainly be one of his own.

The Care of the Eyes.

When one is using the eyes for close work it is wise to change the focus at intervals and gaze off at a distance; if the distant view is of green mountains and fields it will be most restful. If the air in the room can be frequently changed that will rest the eyes also. One should never use the eyes for study or work before breakfast or after the strength has been reduced by disease or a nervous strain. A book should be held about 18 inches from the eyes. The light for work should be steady and for an entire room diffused rather than spotty.—Harper's Bazar.

ORATIONS BY GIRLS FEATURE OF PROGRAM

At Milton High School Speaking Contest—Boys And Girls Judged Separately.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milton, March 18.—The contest Tuesday night drew a large and enthusiastic audience. The selections were exceptionally well delivered and the judges had a very difficult task in rendering their verdict. The feature of the program, perhaps, was the awakened interest taken in the work by the boys, now that they are permitted to deliver orations and to be judged separately from the girls; a goodly number have already volunteered to give orations next year. The musical numbers were of a high grade and greatly pleased the audience. The summaries of the judges' markings showed that first place in the girls' section was won by Miss Godfrey, with Miss Cartwright second, and Mr. Hingham was awarded first place in the boys' group, with Mr. Clarke second.

ISTHMIAN CANAL

BIG UNDERTAKING

SOME INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT THE BIG DITCH.

CULLEN SPEAKS OF THE WORK

Magnitude of the Work and Admirable System Strongly Impress Local Tourists.

"Stupendous, is the only word that adequately describes the great work that Uncle Sam has undertaken in cutting a canal through the isthmus of Panama. The magnitude of the operations and the marvelous system that makes this work possible is what impressed me most."

The above statement was made by John Cullen who, with his brother, James Cullen, returned recently from a trip through the entire canal zone.
They went by way of New York, reaching Colon on March 3, and spending eight days in inspecting the canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

In describing the magnitude of the work, the almost insurmountable difficulties that have been overcome, Mr.
Cullen stated that it would arouse a feeling of pride in the most proud militarist citizen of the United States, to see the way the work is being carried on, to say nothing of the immensity of the undertaking. A contractor on an equal scale himself, Mr.
Cullen is in a position to speak with authority. A visit to the scene of operations would be, in his estimation, the best cure possible for the calamity howlers and huge politicians who are forever yapping at the heels of any great work.

At the time of his visit, the heat was not oppressive, varying from eighty to ninety degrees during the day, and becoming cool at night, so that sleeping was easy. There was also no fear of sickness, the admirable sanitary system inaugurated by the United States doing away almost entirely with the danger of fever that they attempted to build the canal.
It is the opinion of everyone who has seen the sanitary precautions now in force in the canal zone, and have heard stories of the terrible condition of affairs prevalent at the time of the French attempt, that the credit for the work done so far rests in great measure with the sanitary board.
From end to end, the canal zone is patrolled by the sanitary police, every native hut has its garbage can which is emptied every day by the quartermaster's detail, taken to the central plant and burned. Not only the native huts are so supplied, but every residence has one.

In addition to this, the grass and jungle along the village and along the route of operations is kept closely cut in order to give flies and mosquitoes no chance to breed. During his entire stay, Mr. Cullen said that the only place he saw a fly or mosquito was in the hotel at Colon.

Moreover, every pool of stagnant water, every sluggish stream is covered with a film of crude oil, to prevent mosquitoes from breeding. When the fact that the mosquitoes are the most common agents for spreading yellow fever is taken into consideration, it can easily be seen why a war of extermination is waged against them.

Under the sanitary police, the regular law and order kind are very much in evidence. This canal zone is as safe, if not safer, than most American cities. There is a penitentiary where those arrested are placed, but are not kept in idleness, for they are compelled to work on the roads in and about the villages, although not allowed on the canal proper.

It may seem strange that a prison is needed, but when it is remembered that over 20,000 men are employed, it can easily be seen that there is bound to be some bad character among them, especially among the negroes. There are no habitual criminals, however, for when a man is constantly in the hands of the law, he is not likely to become a criminal.
The motto of the canal force is "Work," and it has no place for show that the canal is no place for white dirt and as many people suppose.

Every man has his work, and does it. If not, some one else does, and he goes back to the states to dilate on the incapability of his former superiors and the mistakes they have made and will continue to make.

As a general rule, the skilled workmen are white and the laborers black.
Jamaican negroes form the most part.
The white men run the machines, do the brain work, while the blacks do the manual labor is necessary. Almost all the work is done by manpower, there is little shoveling. This is in complete contrast to the Suez canal where the work was done almost entirely by native labor, the sand being carried out in baskets on the heads of natives.

Up to the present time, the work done by the United States has been almost entirely that of preparation.
Over $20,000,000 was spent in getting the country in a healthful condition, checking the yellow fever, installing the sewerage, lighting and water systems, and in building habitable quarters for the employees. That this labor and expense was not wasted is shown by the vastly decreased death rate. Had the country been left in the condition in which it was when the United States first took possession, practically nothing could have been done, for no white man could live for any length of time.

The magnitude of the work can best be shown by giving some facts in regard to the number of men employed and the amount of machinery used. Between twenty and twenty-one thousand men are employed on the canal proper, and about seven thousand on the Panama railroad, which makes a grand total of nearly twenty-eight thousand workmen.
These men work nine hours a day, except the steam shovel men who work eight.

The white men are paid entirely in gold, their salaries varying of course with the kind of work they do.
The negroes are paid in silver at the rate of twenty-three cents an hour, or equivalent to half that in gold. Pay day comes once a month. Everyone receives government rations, the amount they draw being entered on their grub books. The blacks, if left to themselves, would live on about two bananas a day and do a corresponding amount of work.

The amount of machinery used in the work can scarcely be realized.
There 110 steam shovels, worth $10, 000 each, which weigh seventy-five tons and scoop up five and a half yards of dirt at each shovel full.
Then there are the great dredges and the running stock of the Panama it.
It is to say nothing of the drills, concrete mixers, and the like. There are three large repair shops to mend broken machinery, as it would be impossible to ship it back to the United States for repairs.

A description of the Culien cut of the Gatun dam will give one who has not seen the work a fair idea of its great size, the dam in particular. This dam is for the purpose of blocking the valley between two hills and might easily be called making another hill to dump between the other two.
The dam whose outer sides are a rock from the Culien cut, is over 8,000 feet long and 200 feet wide.
When finished it will entirely cover the bed of a river whose course has been diverted to make the dam possible. It was the weight of the rocks and filler, which when emptied into the old river bed, forced the mud out and caused the much-discussed slide.
This dam is for the purpose of holding the waters of a large artificial lake, which is to regulate the working of the locks.

In discussing the advantages of the lock type of canal over that of a sea level, Mr. Cullen stated that the officials and men who are on the spot are almost unanimously in favor of the former. The tide of the Pacific Ocean rises over 22 feet while that of the Atlantic is only fourteen inches. This difference in the height of the tides would alone necessitate a lock type, to say nothing of the disadvantages caused by the silt which would be washed in and tend to block the canal.

Almost everywhere in the canal zone can be seen traces of the French attempt to dig the big ditch. Long lines of rusted, useless machinery, overgrown by tropical plants, are scattered about. Great masses of iron sections from the French and never put together can also be seen, useless except for the purpose of being sold as scrap. Compared with the work already done by the United States, the French merely scraped a little off of the easiest part of the isthmus. It is true that they penetrated some six miles in from the Atlantic coast, but that was more child's play compared with the strenuous work being done at the Culien cut at present.

The channel which they dug from the ocean west, will be used as an outlet for the Saguer river, as a new outlet for the ships will have been dredged. Some of their machinery, especially engines, have been utilized by the Americans, but the greater share is a total loss.
It is estimated that the canal will be finished about 1915. No concrete work has been started on the locks.
These locks will be double, and will require over 1,800,000 yards of concrete. Crushed stone for the concrete will have to be secured at Porta Bella, a place about twenty miles down the coast, as the rock taken from the Cu-lien cut has been found to be useless for this purpose.

One of the things that attracts the attention of the tourist, besides the magnitude of the work and the admirable sanitary conditions, is the care taken to make living conditions as comfortable and safe as possible. In addition to the police the canal government has also established a fire department, whose members have no other duties.

The hospitals are also well equipped, being placed on hills and have beautiful and well kept grounds. The comfort of tourist is also looked after.
Every dwelling, built by the government of wood brought from the United States has its bath room and sewers. There is a large and well equipped Y. M. C. A. with wide breazy reading rooms, gymnasium and billiard tables.

"There is no one who can improve on the way the work is being done," said Mr. Cullen after describing what he had seen on his trip. "I do not think that an individual contractor could handle the job. In the first place he would not go to the care and expense of safeguarding the lives of his workmen as the United States has done."
"For my part, I can think of no improvement in the manner of doing the work. For my part, when I looked at the size of the undertaking, I was proud to be a single unit of the nation which was big enough to take such a contract and carry it through successfully."

WORK IN THE UNION
DRAINAGE DISTRICT

Will Be Commenced Early in April—Report of the Commissioners Adopted Yesterday.

In circuit court last yesterday afternoon the report of the commissioners proposing benefits and damages in the town of Union drainage district was submitted and adopted with an amendment striking out the previously stipulated charge of $1,000 against the town of Brooklyn for two bridges and merely requiring that the town pay for the said bridges without specifying the cost. The commissioners are F. M. Ames, Wallace Crocker, and Gilbert Arnold, and Mr. Armstrong of Hyamora, Ill., the promoter of the scheme and civil engineer in charge of the work, was here in conference with them.

The proposed ditch will drain a large area in the towns of Oregon, Dane county; Brooklyn, Green county; and Union, Rock county. According to estimates it will cost about $14,000.
All the legal preliminaries having been arranged, work will begin early in April.

AUTO COMPANY WILL DECIDE THIS WEEK

Location for Proposed New Factory Will Be Decided Upon Some Time This Week.

Two sites for their new reinforced concrete factory have been picked out by the Owen Thomas Automobile company of this city, and the final choice will be made either at the meeting of the company in Chicago today or at the meeting in this city on Saturday.
Where the two sites are located, or which one has the preference, still remains a secret, as officials refuse to discuss it. It is certain, however, that a new factory will be built, and that the land used will be about five acres. It is not expected that the new buildings will cover that much ground, but the officials are taking no chances of being tied down on a small site should the business reach the proportions hoped for. The buildings, plans of which are now ready, will do away with elevators. The plans have been submitted to local contractors, and the contract for the work will be awarded soon.

Many considerations enter into the choice of a location, and it is for this reason that the officials refuse to make their choice public. After a thorough examination it was found that only two offered the necessary facilities, level ground, sufficient acreage, and accessibility to the railroad. Even after the permanent site has been chosen, certain matters, such as the purchase of a few small holdings, and water and sewer rights from the city will have to be settled before building operations are begun. Preparations for the manufacture of the automobiles are also well under way, workmen are being secured and the cost of material estimated. The contract for the upholstering of seats and making the canopy has been given to the Wisconsin Carriage company of this city.

Complain of Service Which They Now Receive From the Railroad—Petition Being Circulated.

Footville, March 18.—Postmaster Snyder is circulating a petition to the state rate commission asking better train service for Footville. Whether the commission can, or will, do more than the railroad company, which has been petitioned again and again, remains to be seen. At best it seems but a forlorn hope. Isolated as they have been in the past, the present indications do not augur anything better for the future. Within a starting of new mail routes from their neighborhood post-office to the southwest, beginning to look as though the better mail service at that point will eventually make our post-office a superfluousity and we shall be off the map in

The LAST VOYAGE of the DONNA ISABEL

CHAPTER XVIII.

In Which We Lay the Ghost.

The coming of night found our situation less promising—a thick veil of clouds obscuring all gleam of stars, the wind veering more to the westward and growing bitterly cold. The barometer was falling slowly, presaging the approach of storm; yet nothing openly threatened with the exception of those thickening cloud-masses scudding up from out the southwest, their whiteness reflected in the darkening sea, and the continuous thunder of waves along the lee-front blocking our passage. I visited the engine and boiler rooms, ordered half speed and prompt attention to signals, took one last searching glance about the dimming horizon, and finally threw myself, without undressing, on my bunk for a brief rest below.

As I lay there, thinking of that wild scene without, I discovered sleep impossible. Was I doing right thus to hold on for further sailing? My conscience was not altogether clear, for I realized that it would be luck rather than seamanship that would take us through and bring us safely out again. Only some mystery of Providence had thus far given us passage, had held the wind to another point of the compass, bawling back the invading fleet and yielding to us an open sea. But would such fortune last—a day, two days, more? We could race northward with the lee, but what about that vast fleet stretching to the northwest? If by some shift of wind it were to close in, the helpless Sea Queen would be crushed like an eggshell. And Lady Darlington had said she trusted me implicitly. Was I showing myself worthy by thus pushing the yacht deeper into danger?

By heaven, for her sake, if for no other reason, I would play the man! Ay, and I comprehended exactly what such resolve would cost—realized fully what that mongrel crew would say and do the moment their ghastly terrors fled, and they knew I had given up search for the treasure. I should have to command by brute force, by threat and blow. There would be mutiny aboard for every league until we made port. I knew the nature of that sea-accident forward—how they would whine and curse, how they would hate me for failing to hold them to their course in face of death! Well, let them hate; my love was worth by far the more, and the life and honor of Lady Darlington outweighed all else on board—my, and the treasure of the Donna Isabel! "Implicitly"—I saw her eyes again as she said it, and sprang to the deck, trembling in the darkness for the latch of my door.

The main cabin was dimly lighted and chill, the fire in the stove low. I paused to rattle it, and add a few lumps of coal from the scuttle standing near by. In spite of surrounding comforts what a grim, inhospitable place this was for any woman like her! The very stoniness of the cabin served only to emphasize the gloom and peril without, the frightful polar mystery which surrounded us, which drives men mad amid its awful distances, its shrouded silence.

Suddenly, directly opposite where I stood, I saw it again—that same shapeless, white, gliding figure. An instant only I stood rooted to the spot, my blood like ice, my eyes full of horror. Then the swift reaction came, the reserve courage of a man ashamed of such weakness, and I leaped straight toward the misty object, grasping it at its throat. I touched nothing but air, falling headlong with a violence jarring the entire cabin, and overthrowing a chair, crashing to the deck. Dazed, confused, I staggered to my knees, staring about into the dim windows. A white-draped figure was at my very elbow, and I sprang to my feet, only to take a quick step backward, grasping at the table, as I recognized Lady Darlington.

"Good God! was that you?" I gasped, the horror still possessing me. "This certainly is," she answered, swiftly. "But what do you mean? What has occurred?"

"I hardly know," and I looked about me, and then into her face, breathing heavily. "I seem unable to separate the real from the unreal. I am half afraid I am losing my mind. Lady Darlington, it is not only the crew forward who are seeing ghosts on board. I laughed at my experience before, believing it a mere illusion that could never occur again. In that spirit I told you about seeing a white, misty figure in this cabin the night after Tuttle died. It vanished like a wraith of smoke, and daylight made me believe the vision was born of a tired brain. But I have seen it again now—yonder, as plainly as I can see you. It was no dream, no imagination; yet when I sought to grasp the thing, my fingers encountered nothing but air."

I saw her hands tremble, her white face turned whiter I pointed; but she had not beheld what I had, and her mind remained clear.

"What was it you saw?"

"A shapeless white figure, misty, vanishing like a bubble."

"Yonder, you say? Just where you saw it before?"

I had not thought of that, yet it was true—there, beside Tuttle's door. An instant she stood motionless, her eyes searching the dim corners of the cabin, as though tracing some suspicious awakened within her mind. Suddenly she clasped my arm.

"We do not believe in ghosts, Mr. Stephens, you and I," her voice growing firmer with conviction. "Our education and training make such a conception impossible. There is a natural cause for this, a reason, a natural presence back of the shadow. There must be, and we must find it. Where did you stand when you saw this apparition?"

I stopped back to the spot beside the stove, realizing that she still clung tightly to me.

"Here, and I lifted my eyes like this."

She leaned eagerly forward, her breath on my cheek, her fingers clutching my arm.

"Why—why that is a mirror you are looking into! See! What is it reflected there? Turn up the light until I locate the spot. Oh, I see now—the open pantry door, Mr. Stephens, there is where your ghost stood—it was the shadow of a man reflected in that mirror."

Our eyes met, all my former terror fled, shame and anger dominating me. "Dad!"

"It might be—certainly some one who sought in that way to terrorize officers and crew, and thus compel them to turn back. Whoever it was, he killed Mr. Tuttle, and now seeks to accomplish the same end with you. What are you going to do?"

"Trace him down. The last time the fellow went directly from here to the fore-castle. There must be a passageway from stem to stern."

She caught me as I turned, her gray eyes wide with apprehension.

"You will take me with you?"

"That will be impossible, Lady Darlington. I know nothing regarding this passage and ship, but it must surely lead through the coal bunkers and the engine room."

"But—but I cannot let you go alone," I uttered forgetting to conceal her agitation. "Truly, I could not bear to do it. Whoever this man may be, he will become desperate when cornered. Your very life will be in danger."

"And you really care?" my hand clasping hers, my eyes eagerly searching the gray depths.

"Yes, I care," making no effort to free herself; "why should I not? Think what our condition would be if you were not on board. Yet that is not all; I care because I value your life, your friendship. Little as I can do, let me, at least, be near you."

"You are near me," said I, utterly forgetful of circumstances in the sudden rush of passion, "always near me because my thoughts are with you, my sole purpose in life to serve you."

The gray eyes full instantly; the clasping hand was withdrawn and pressed to her forehead.

"I—I will try to do as you wish," she faltered, "but are you armed?"

"Not now, but I will get a revolver from my stateroom. First, let me help you to your cabin."

She permitted my guidance without a word of protest, only glancing once up into my face as she put a question.

"You will return here? you will let me know at once what you discover? Promise me this."

"I promise; and more, I will pledge myself to be cautious, so do not worry."

I procured my revolver, turned the light low once more in the main cabin, and then stole silently into the narrow passageway leading forward. There was no light in the pantry, but the faint reflection from the cabin enabled me to distinguish the more prominent outlines. A form lay outstretched on a locker, and I bent over it silently. It was Dade, curled up on his side and sound asleep. There was no doubt about the reality of his slumber; the fellow was not snoring, and I drew back, leaving him undisturbed. The alleyway leading forward was extremely narrow, yet of a height sufficient to afford comparatively easy passage had it only been lighted. Suddenly a faint glow appeared ahead, and a moment later I slipped cautiously through a small bulkhead door standing ajar, into a low, square room, containing six bunks arranged in tiers of two. A slush lamp swung from a blackened beam, and various articles of wearing apparel dangled from hooks. I peered into the bunks, discovering three occupied, the unconscious sleepers being Cooky, the smooth-shaven Chilean, and the gunner, a Swede named Gustafson. None awoke under my scrutiny, although the Chilean was talking in his sleep and thrashing his arms about as if in nightmare. I bent down, looking at

CANNOT BE CURED BY EXTERNAL APPLICATIONS ALONE.

Advice From a Physician Who Has Made Skin and Blood Diseases a Life Study.

If you have Eczema, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Scrofula, etc., get rid of them at once. Don't trifle with yourself by using every patent lotion and ointment that comes under your notice, and that at best gives you only temporary relief. Take DR. TAYLOR'S REMEDY. He made a life study of these diseases, and his formula is the only treatment that will eliminate the poison from the blood and effect a permanent cure. If you have any of these diseases, depend upon it they are either inherent or caused by uric acid, or other poisons lurking in the system. External applications alone send up the pores of the skin and force the disease back into the blood, to reassert itself as soon as the outward applications cease. Permanent relief can be obtained only by forcing the poison out of the blood, leaving it pure and blood as nature intended it should be. Send to our office, 1330 Arch Street, for booklet. him more closely. Attracted by something oddly familiar in the upturned features, by all the gods, the fellow was Lieutenant Juan Sanchez, his long mustaches shaven, and looking ten years younger! It was no odd thing, this sudden renewal of a controversy originating thousands of leagues away, that I nearly laughed outright, forgetting for the instant the serious purpose bringing me there.

Yet this surprising discovery of Sanchez aboard seemed of comparatively little importance, and was as quickly dismissed. The narrow bulkhead door leading forward was tightly closed, and in that dim light I had to hunt for it, so perfectly was it fitted into place. When discovered, however, it proved to be unfashioned, and I stepped forth into an empty coal bunker, whence I could look straight forward along the glowing boilers into the engine room. I advanced carefully along the slight, open space until I came upon the squad of firemen and big Bill Anderson. The latter shaded his eyes, staring at me as though he mistook me for another ghost, but I took the initiative.

"I have been investigating the arrangement of things below, Anderson," I said, in explanation; "rather odd way in which the yacht is cut up. Did you know there was a passage leading all the way aft?"

The boatswain shook his head, too surely naturally to answer.

"Well, possibly you know whether or not a similar passage leads forward into the fore-castle?"

"There's a bulkhead door over there," he returned, indicating by a gesture a spot concealed by the donkey pump, "but I don't know where it goes, only it's dark as hell."

"It comes out under the fore-castle, sir," broke in a coal heaver named Davis. "Leastwise there's a trap in the deck there, with a ladder leading down."

"I'll finish the trip through, then, for I like to know what is under my feet when I command a vessel. Where is the engineer, Anderson?"

He waved his big hairy hand in the direction of the boilers.

"Went to his bunk to lie down for an hour; he was about all in."

"Are you capable of standing watch alone in an engine room?"

The fellow grinned, his bulldog jaw protruding.

"Well, I've had to do it on this trip whether I'm capable or not. That fellow can't stand it in here night and day without no rest. I know how to start an' stop her, an' watch the water gauge. If anything else goes wrong, he's easy enough called."

LEFT ON HER DOORSTEP FOR THIS MOTHER

Mrs. A. G. Tison, of Livermore, Cal., writes: "I picked up from my doorstep one day a little book in which I soon became very much interested. My little girl of five years of age had been troubled for a long time with loss of appetite, extreme nervousness and undue fatigue. She was all run-down and in a very delicate condition. This little book was very comprehensively written, and told of the new method of extracting the medicinal elements of the cod's liver from the oil, eliminating the obnoxious oil which is so hard for children to take. 'Just the thing,' said I, 'for my little daughter,' and I immediately went for a bottle of Vinol. It helped her wonderfully. She has gained rapidly in flesh and strength, and she does not take cold half so easily. 'I am extremely grateful for the good it has done her, and I hope other mothers who have weak, delicate or ailing children will be benefited by my experience and just give Vinol a trial.' BOLD KIDNAPER WANTS BIG SUM Steals Schoolboy and Demands $10,000 Ransom.

WRITES LETTER TO MOTHER

Son of Pennsylvania Lawyer and Nephew of Millionaire Carried Off in Buggy—Tells Parents "Dead Boys Are Not Desirable."

Sharon, Pa., Mar. 19.—Excitement in this city and surrounding country is at fever pitch over the kidnapping from school yesterday of William Whittin, eight-year-old son of James H. Whittin, an attorney, who is being held for ransom of $10,000. Should the kidnaper be found a latching may follow.

Accompanying the demand for ransom is a covert threat that the boy will be killed unless the money is produced.

Mother Receives a Letter.

At one o'clock a letter directed to the mother was delivered at the house by a mail carrier. Mrs. Whittin at once recognized the handwriting on the envelope as that of her son. Opening it, she found the following communication written in a strange hand:

"We have your boy and will return him for $10,000. Will see your advertisement in the papers. Insert in Indianapolis News, Cleveland Press, Pittsburgh Dispatch, Youngstown Vindicator, A. A.—Will do as requested. J. P. W. Dead boys are not desirable."

The handwriting and spelling of the note indicated it had been written by a man of fair education. Mr. Whittin decided to comply with the conditions of the letter and sent for publication to each of the newspapers specified the note it directed him to insert.

Find Trace at Warren.

Hundreds of telegrams and telephone messages have been sent to the police of various cities, asking their assistance in the search for the boy and his abductors. The first fruit of these came when Chief of Police Crain of this city received word that the risk in which the lad was taken away had been recovered at Warren, O.

Attorney and Mrs. Whittin are among the town's leading residents. The former is a brother-in-law of Frank H. Buhl, the multi-millionaire steel man.

Cleveland, O., Mar. 19.—Cleveland police were advised that two men and a boy, the latter answering descriptions of William Whittin, eight years old, son of James H. Whittin of Sharon, Pa., kidnapped yesterday, were seen in Warren, O., late in the afternoon and that the party was bound for Cleveland. A detail of detectives was assigned to watch all incoming trains and interurban cars.

Warren, O., Mar. 19.—A man said to answer the description of the one wanted at Sharon, Pa., on a charge of kidnapping the Whittin boy, was arrested here. The father of the Sharon school will arrive here to see if he can identify him.
